

Appendix A

---

Timeline

- 1904: Hans Albert Einstein born in Bern, Switzerland, the first son of Albert Einstein and Mileva Maric Einstein. Family moves to Zurich (1909), Prague (1911), and back to Zurich (1912).
- 1910: Hans Albert's brother Eduard is born.
- 1914: Family moves to Berlin; within a few months, Mileva and the two boys return to Zurich, initiating a permanent family separation.
- 1919: Mileva and Albert divorce. Albert marries Elsa Löwenthal.
- 1926: Hans Albert graduates from the Swiss Federal Institute of Technology (Eidgenössische Technische Hochschule, ETH), Zurich, with a diploma degree in civil engineering.
- 1927: Hans Albert accepts a job as a structural engineer in Dortmund, Germany, and marries Frieda Knecht.
- 1930: Hans Albert and Frieda's first child Bernhard is born.
- 1931: Hans Albert and family move back to Zurich, where Hans Albert becomes a research assistant and graduate student at ETH's new Laboratory for Hydraulic Research and begins studying sediment transport and water flow in rivers under Professor Eugen Meyer-Peter.
- 1933: Hans Albert and Frieda's second son, Klaus, is born; Albert and Elsa resettle in the United States.

- 1936: Hans Albert attains the degree Doctor of Technical Science for his dissertation on bed-particle transport as bed load.
- 1938: Hans Albert and family move to Greenville, South Carolina, where Hans Albert works for the U.S. Soil Conservation Service's Greenville Sediment Load Lab on the Enoree River.
- 1939: Klaus dies of diphtheria; Hans Albert and Frieda's third son, David, dies as an infant.
- 1941: Hans Albert and Frieda adopt daughter Evelyn as an infant.
- 1943: Hans Albert and family move to Pasadena, California, where Hans Albert works for the U.S. Soil Conservation Service at CalTech's Cooperative Hydraulics Laboratory, and also for CalTech's Hydrodynamics Laboratory
- 1947: Hans Albert and family move to Berkeley, California, where Hans Albert becomes a professor at the University of California, Division of Mechanical Engineering.
- 1948: Mileva dies in Zurich.
- 1955: Albert dies in Princeton, New Jersey.
- 1958: Frieda dies in Berkeley, California.
- 1959: Hans Albert marries Elizabeth Roboz.
- 1965: Hans Albert's brother Eduard dies in Zurich.
- 1971: Hans Albert retires from the University of California–Berkeley faculty.
- 1973: Hans Albert dies at age 70 from a heart attack while residing as a scientist in residence at Woods Hole Oceanographic Institute, in Woods Hole, Massachusetts.